Daniel Zenk is a typical college guy. Good-looking. Driven to succeed. A little too cocky. He differs from most of the other frat boy types on campus in one important way – Dan has the hots for his male English professor! Professor Jason Montell's sexuality smolders just beneath the surface of his hipster glasses and conservative blazer. The university instructor wants to instill a love of literature in his students while finding love in his personal life. The two worlds collide at the beginning of the fall semester and set a dangerous chain of events in motion. While implementing his plan to seduce the sexy older man, Dan crosses the line between interest and obsession. How far will the young man go to get Jason to give in to temptation? Like the characters in Medea they are studying in class, the professor and his student are about to discover that "Stronger than lover's love is lover's hate. Incurable, in each, the wounds they make."

Road to Romance Peter Styles 2018-10-16 LUKEI have two mortal enemies - Max Stephens and whoever decided opposites should attract. He's everything I despise. Perfect looks, easy charm. The world falls at his feet the second he flashes a smile. We started our jobs at the same time, but we're up for the same promotion even though I stay all night while he leaves at five. I'm pretty sure I'm in love with him. I can't explain it, other than possible brain damage. He's everything I'm not. Everything I wish I could be. If I hadn't lost my parents so young. If my whole life wasn't about making my grandparents proud. If I still hadn't come out for fear of losing them. At least that keeps me from embarrassing myself with Max. But then life throws a curve-ball. Close confinement with my archenemy. Days on the road together for work. Forced to get to know him. Learn we're not so different, that the person beneath his charm is even hotter, because it has actual substance. Depth. Hopes.

Dreams. Suddenly my crush isn't so bizarre. A future with him isn't just a fantasy. I could have the guy of my dreams...but only if I risk losing my last real family...MAX Everyone thinks my life's so perfect, but if that's true, why does my office crush hate my guts? Answer me that! It's not like I dream of a white picket fence and a dog with the guy. Much. I don't even know if he's gay. Every attempted interaction earns me a death glare, and I have no idea why. Then we're crammed in a car driving cross country. I get all the answers I ever wanted, and no idea what to do with them. Luke is gay. He doesn't really hate me. He likes me, maybe even more than likes me. Maybe a lot more, judging by the way he kisses me. But he's still in the closet. Even he doesn't know if he'll ever leave it. And he might not hate me now, but that could change the second he learns he wasn't the capital city of Tehran. The research draws on diverse interpretive, historical, online and empirical sources in order to present critical and nuanced insights into the politics of recognition and representation and the constitution of same-sex desire under the specific conditions of Iranian modernity. As it engages with accounts of the persecuted Iranian gay male subject as a victim of the barbarism of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the book addresses interpretive questions of sexuality governance in transnational contexts and attends to issues of human rights frameworks in weighing social justice and political claims made by and on behalf of sexual and gender minorities. The book thus combines empirical data with a critical consideration of the politics of same-sex desire for Iranian gay men.

Gay and Lesbian Elders Nancy J. Knauer
2016-04-15 The approximately two million gay and lesbian elders in the United States are an underserved and understudied population. At a time when gay men and lesbians enjoy an unprecedented degree of social acceptance and legal protection, many elders face the daily challenges of aging isolated from family, detached from the larger gay and lesbian community, and ignored by mainstream aging initiatives. Drawing on materials from law, history, and social theory, this book integrates practical proposals for reform with larger issues of sexuality and identity. Beginning with a summary of existing demographic data and offering a historical overview of pre-Stonewall views of homosexuality, author Nancy J. Knauer goes on to address the invisibility of this community. She examines the multiple double binds central to their identity formation, including ageism among gays and lesbians and homophobia among seniors. Further, the book focuses on specific legal concerns such as estate planning, housing, discrimination, and financial insecurity, and how they impact this community uniquely. Integrating theory with practical questions of policy, and advancing a new understanding of the construction of sexuality and identity, this book advocates meaningful new reforms designed to ensure equity and dignity in aging regardless of sexual orientation.

The Columbia Anthology of Gay Literature Byrne

R. S. Fone 1998 In the three decades since New York City's Stonewall rebellion, gay literature has exploded as a distinctive form of cultural expression. In a variety of styles and genres, gay men have increasingly begun to articulate their sexual identities. At the same time, gay writers and scholars have begun in earnest the search for a literary history long denied by the refusal to recognize homosexual love as an integral part of Western literature. Yet to date, no single volume has brought together the full range of poetry, fiction, essays, and autobiography that portray love between men. From the Epic of Gilgamesh to the poems of Allen Ginsberg and gay literature of the 1980s and '90s, The Columbia Anthology of Gay Literature draws together hundreds of texts from Western literary history that describe experiences of love, friendship, intimacy, desire, and sex among men. While other anthologies have focused primarily on poetry, drama, or fiction, this volume is the first to include a full range of genres. Spanning more than two millennia, from ancient Mesopotamia to the late twentieth century, this anthology brings together the best-known texts of gay male writing such as the poetry of Martial and Walt Whitman, and excerpts from E. M. Forster's Maurice, as well as from lesser known works such as nineteenth-century English homoerotic poetry and selections from two early American novels of homosexual love -- Joseph and His Friend and Imre. In The Columbia Anthology readers become acquainted with the early bonds of male companionship found in Homer's writings on Zeus and Ganymede, and with the homoerotic poetry of Catullus and Juvenal. From Shakespeare's Sonnets to the philosophy of de Sade, to the political writings of Edmund White, this masterful anthology traces a multifaceted tradition. Arranged chronologically, sections are supplemented by illuminating introductory essays; many individual pieces include background commentary on the writer and the work. As a landmark to the enduring spirit of gay writers, this collection is an essential addition to the library of anyone searching for the historical foundations of gay identities. With its excellent annotations and suggestions for further reading, The Columbia Anthology of Gay Literature will also serve as an invaluable resource to students and scholars in need of a guide to a massive body of literature that has long been hidden, ignored, or misrepresented.

Decisions Gideon Elliot 2014-01-15 Contains: M/M sexuality and adult language "There is no romance without heartache, by definition." Gideon Elliot presents this collection of three short stories of gay love...three men find romance, and at the same time, discover the steep price of love. The price is heartache and life-changing decisions have to be made: "Secret" Lucas is curious about how it feels to be with another man. That's supposed to be all. He never thought about finding love, and certainly not with Matthew, who is - like him - married to a woman. "Miniatures: My First Drag" A gorgeous young man learns the ropes of wearing drag. But he quickly realizes his aloofness and cruelty to the people who want him, work like aphrodisiac. "The Ambiguities of the Libido" Teddy, a mama's boy, is torn between his clingy, demanding mother and stunning, rakish Gregory, who dares to ask: Why are you letting your mother stop you? *A compilation of Gay Romance stories for mature audiences

As the throbbing music led us deeper into the fantasy, he spun me around, pulled me back into his arms, and then dipped me. I felt dizzy and drunk with lust. My cheeks flushed with heat. I liked the way he took control. Something familiar stirred in his brown eyes. Naughty Girls and Gay Male Romance/Porn: Slash Fiction, Boys' Love Manga, and Other Works by Female "Cross-Voyeurs" in the U.S. Academic Discourses Carola Katharina Bauer 2013-06-01

Despite the fact that there actually exists a large number of pornographic and romantic texts about male homosexuality consumed and produced by American women since the 1970s, the "abnormality" of those female cross-voyeurs is constantly underlined in U.S. popular and academic culture. As the astonished, public reactions in the face of a largely female (heterosexual) audience of "Brokeback Mountain" (2005) and "Queer as Folk" (2000-2005) have shown, a woman's erotic/romantic interest in male homosexuality is definitely not as accepted as its male counterpart (men consuming lesbian porn). In the academic publications on female cross-voyeurs, the application of double standards with regard to male/female cross-voyeurism is even more obvious. As Karen Hellekson and Kristina Busse note in their "Introduction" to "Fan Fiction and Fan Communities in the Internet" (2006), slash fiction – fan fiction about male homosexual relationships mainly produced and consumed by women – has stood in the center of fan fiction studies so far, despite being merely a subgenre of it. The reason for this seems to be an urge to explain the underlying motivations for the fascination of women with m/m romance or pornography within the academic discourse – a trend which differs completely from the extremely under-theorized complex of men interested in "lesbians." It is this obvious influence of conventional gender stereotypes on the perception of these phenomena that provokes me to examine the way in which the works of female cross-voyeurism and their consumers/producers are conceptualized in the U.S. scholarly accounts. In many ways, this thesis explores unknown territories and respectively tries to take a closer look at academic problems that have not been adequately addressed yet.

I was betrayed... I had my heart broken. And I was in mourning... I lost a dear friend. Something inside me just shut down. I didn't want to go out. I didn't want to face the world. But then I saw him again... Keifer... the man who broke my heart. And it all came rushing back. The emotion, the fire... the heat... the memories... the rage. So I punched him. Yeah, I punched him real good. I thought it would be over. I never expected to keep thinking about him. I never expected that he... that he was still thinking about me. I always said to myself that I wouldn't give anybody a second chance. Cross me, and you're out, gone, and we're finished. But now I find myself changing my tune. I don't know if I'll be able to give him a second chance. But I know that I'm going to try... and we'll see where this goes. Because I still love Keifer. And doesn't love deserve a second chance? * The New Assistant I lost a lot that day. Almost everything. That day they still come to my door to ask me questions about. That day the reporters won't ever forget... I knew I would mourn... And I knew I would grieve... But I never truly realized that... one day... I'd move on. It all started with my new assistant. His eyes looked into my soul. I felt as if I was falling into them. I became obsessed with him. Me, a man previously married to a woman! And here I was, fantasizing about a colleague at work, a subordinate, no less. What a cliché. But it was what I was feeling, and I was determined to keep it to myself. I failed, of course. Everything all started to unravel when I told him he was beautiful. And my world stopped dead. * The Plan Simon Bad break-up, moving to a new city, starting a new job. Who hasn't experienced that before? I expected this whole thing to be cliché and predictable. What I never expected was for my new boss, Greg, to be drop-dead gorgeous. Six-foot tall, endless eyes, and a sexy-as-sin body that I could explore every inch of. Just one problem, though... I don't know if he's gay. I can't stop thinking about my new boss... and of all the ways he could touch me. Of all the ways he could love me. I need a plan if I'm going to get this man. * Greg I never pass up an opportunity, both professionally and personally. So of course I took the opening to be the new project lead. And of course I took an interest in the new hire, Simon. What I didn't expect was chocolate eyes and gorgeous curls. What I didn't expect was to want to take Simon home the very first time I saw him. But there's a problem... he's my subordinate. I've never let rules stop me before, though. I'm going to make Simon mine, and he'll have to do what I say. *

Man-To-Man Pleasure Paul-François Sylvestre 2020-01-13 We often hear that men seldom go to the library or buy a book. In some cases, this is because they do not find fiction that stirs their interest, namely erotica in the case of gay men. This collection of 36 short stories fills a gap in gay erotica. The texts are presented under the following six headings: • First time & coming out • Interracial • Daddies • Russian & Ukrainian file • American file • Bondage & group sex. Whether you are top or bottom, daddy or son, Black, White or Asian, romantic or just horny, whether your fetish is underwear, jockstrap, tight jeans or leather gear, these thirty-six short stories are bound to give you a hard-on.
